SCHOOL OF GOVERNMENT

Assistant Dean Jessup

The George Washington University has provided training in both foreign service and governmental theory and administration throughout its history. The School of Government was established in 1928 to bring together in various undergraduate and graduate curricula this work. It is the purpose of the school to give the student an understanding of his responsibilities under the constitution of the United States in the conduct of public office both domestic and foreign. This can be accomplished through a curriculum which correlates social, economics, political, historical, business and psychological studies. The School of Government definitely plays an important part in The George Washington University, a part which is further emphasized by its location in the nation's capital.

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

The purpose of the School of Education is to prepare teachers, supervisors and administrators for the higher ranges of educational service and to offer opportunities to teachers of experience to extend their education. It includes the departments of Education, Physical Education and Home Economics, and it offers both graduate and undergraduate work. Course schedules are arranged to meet the convenience of both full-time and part-time students. By attending evening and summer classes teachers in the schools of Washington and the vicinity may complete all the requirements for a degree without giving up their positions. The School of Education has done much to further the advancement of American teachers and administrators.

SCHOOL OF PHARMACY

Future pharmacists at work

In 1867 the present School of Pharmacy was founded as the National College of Pharmacy by the Apothecaries' Association of the District of Columbia. It opened up its doors in 1872 and then in 1906 became affiliated with The George Washington University. The School of Pharmacy is accredited by the American Council on Pharmaceutical Education as a class "A" school and is also a member of the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy. Only a few blocks away the student of Pharmacy has at his disposal The American Institute of Pharmacy with its pharmaceutical museum, library and research laboratories. This Institute has brought many of the outstanding men of the profession to Washington and they in turn have presented their knowledge and experience to the students in the School of Pharmacy.

DIVISION OF SPECIAL STUDENTS

The Division of Special Students, which was established in 1944, is made up of those students who wish to qualify for degree candidacy. The courses in the schedule are those required in the divisions of the University of which the special student wishes to become a member when the requirements are completed. Upon the satisfactory completion of requirements, with the maintenance of the necessary quality point index, the student may transfer to that division.

An extensive advisory program is used in the Division in an effort to help the student as much as possible. After each semester, letters are sent to the students, calling them to a conference to discuss their individual problems. An increasing number of students each year are transferred to the school of their choice.

THE DIVISION OF UNIVERSITY STUDENTS

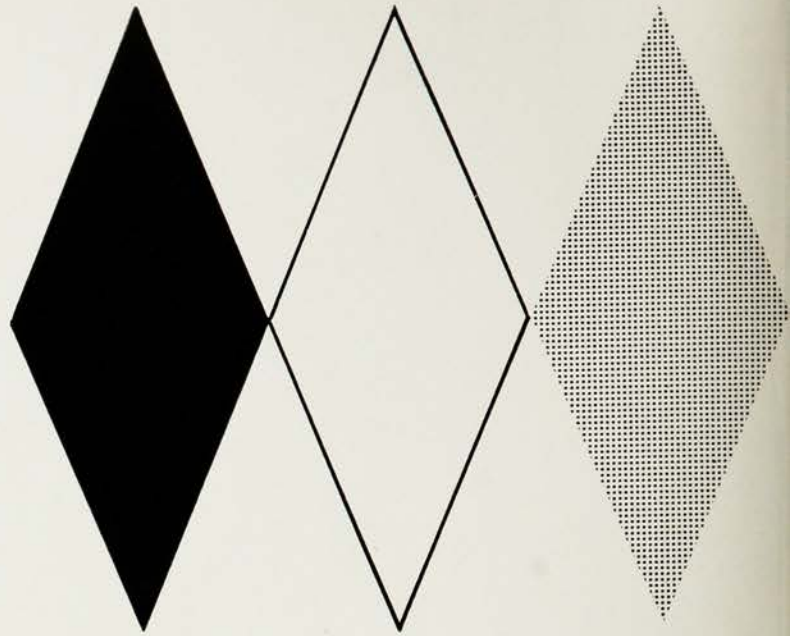

The Division of University Students was established in 1930. In this Division are registered adult students who wish to undertake University courses either for credit or as auditors but who are not interested in working toward degrees in this University. University students may be transferred, at request, to another college or school of the University upon complying with the regulations of the specific college or school to which they wish to be transferred.

COLLEGE OF GENERAL STUDIES

The College of General Studies was established in 1950 as an addition to the adult education program and includes an off-campus division, an on-campus division, and the Division of Community Services. The College of General Studies is represented in such places as the Loudoun County Virginia Community College; the Red Stone Arsenal, Huntsville, Alabama; the Pentagon; Langley Air Force Base; and the Patuxent Naval Air Station.

The Counseling Center and Reading Clinic of the University are also included as a part of this newest enterprise.

Alpha Zeta Omega is a national professional pharmaceutical fraternity whose membership is made up of both students and alumni. One of the principle aims of the organization is to keep abreast of the recent developments in pharmacy. The group is benefited by the social contacts with professional pharmacists afforded its members. Among the activities of the Washington Chapter is the publication of a newspaper for the pharmacists of the city, and the awarding of a scholarship in pharmacy at the University each year to an outstanding graduate of a District High School. Speakers are asked into the regular business meetings and do much to add to the interest and vitality of the organization.

Stringing lights in preparation for the annual tree lighting ceremony.

The Engineers' Council is the representative body of the students of the School of Engineering. The membership of the 1954-55 Council is composed of the societies and fraternities, ASME, ASCE, AIEE, IRE, Theta Tau and Sigma Tau, two delegates from the freshman class, the treasurer of the Mecheleciv magazine and the house manager of the Davis-Hodgkins House.

The Council this year has accomplished a revision of their constitution. Under the new constitution, the council is a more representative body, drawing membership from each of the classes in engineering as well as from the societies and fraternities. This new plan goes into effect in May of 1955.

The Council also publishes the Mecheleciv, annually presents the University with a Christmas tree, collects money for underprivileged children at Christmas, and sponsors the Engineers' Banquet and Ball in the spring. In addition the Council serves as a liaison body between the students and faculty of the School of Engineering and a coordinating board for the societies and fraternities.

Sigma Tau Fraternity is the national engineering academic honor society at The George Washington University. The society was founded in Lincoln, Nebraska on February 22, 1904 for the purpose of recognizing scholastic and professional achievement and to provide service to engineering education.

Xi chapter was founded at The George Washington University April 18, 1921 and is still maintaining the original purposes of the fraternity. Members are selected from those students in the upper third of the junior and senior classes who demonstrate sociability, practicability and professional achievement.

Although Sigma Tau is essentially an honorary, it serves the school as a service organization by providing a free tutoring service to all engineering students.

JOINT BRANCH A. I. E. E. AND I. R. E.

The George Washington University Branch of American Institute of Electrical Engineers was founded in 1932, and is open to all interested students who are enrolled in electrical engineering. The student branch of Institute of Radio Engineers attracts particularly those taking the communications option or those interested in electronics. The AIEE-IRE is a joint organization composed of students in the department of Electrical Engineering. It is the largest of the three societies in the Engineering School.

Both AIEE and IRE hold contests each year for all interested students. The American Institute of Electrical Engineers contest gives awards for papers and is sponsored nationally. The Institute of Radio Engineers contest is strictly for students of the University.

Mecheleciv is published six times a year for and by the students of the School of Engineering under the direction of the Engineers' Council, and is the only national student publication in the University.

Mecheleciv is a member magazine of the Engineering College Magazines, Associated, an organization composed of the thirty-five leading magazines in the country.

The magazine is published to further interest in engineering and University activities both among students and alumni, to present technical articles written by undergraduate students, and to offer an opportunity for future engineers to acquire the skill of technical writing.

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF MECHANICAL ENGINEERS

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers was founded nationally in 1880, and since that time has grown to number over fifty thousand members. One-third of this number are student members of the one hundred thirty-five student branches. The George Washington University Student Branch is composed of students in the School of Engineering who are studying for the degree of Bachelor of Mechanical Engineering.

Among the aims of the society are the promotion of the art and science of Mechanical engineering, the encouragement of original research, the fostering of engineering education, and the development of practical competence. The engineering student feels that it is important to broaden his interests into fields other than engineering while he is in school. By means of speakers at monthly meetings who are entertaining as well as educational ASME carries out these aims.

A professional engineering fraternity, Theta Tau was founded in 1904 at the University of Minnesota. Gamma Beta chapter of Theta Tau was founded at George Washington University in 1935. Its requirements are that its members be in the School of Engineering and that they be invited to join by the brothers.

The founders of the fraternity felt that some means of developing high standards of professional interest among student engineers were needed, and that an organization which could accomplish this and also unite students in the various fields of engineering with bonds of fraternal friendship would be of value to both the students and the engineering profession.

The activities of the fraternity are many. Banquets, dances, smokers, picnics, and an annual Shrimp Feast on Armistice Day provide recreation for the members.

The American Society of Civil Engineers was the first national engineers society to be formed in the United States and since its founding has worked to promote high standards of engineers. Through field trips, the members learn to apply the facts they obtain from textbooks. At regular meetings lectures are given by prominent men in civil engineering.

The chapter is open to all civil engineering students with a 2.0 average. Annually it gives an award to the student who has contributed the most to ASCE throughout the school year.

Organized in 1913 through the merger of three law fraternities, Delta Theta Phi Law Fraternity has grown to be the largest law fraternity in the United States, having 81 student senates with a membership in excess of thirty thousand including alumni.

The most active chapter, and also the one having the largest membership is Woodrow Wilson Senate of The George Washington University Law School. During the year a variety of activities are planned. Outstanding among the fraternal and educational events are the professional meetings at which prominent lawyers speak on the latest developments in their respective fields of law. In the social field, the annual highlights include the spring and fall inter-senate dances, a picnic, and the Founders Day Banquet where the principal speaker is usually a prominent Delta Theta Phi member of the United States Senate.

This year's Board of Governors has introduced many new activities: Law Day, a full day of professional and social activities, held November 13th for the first time and now to be a permanent event on the University Calendar; parties for all SBA members; feature-length motion pictures on legal-governmental topics; patent and trademark activities; Toastmasters Club (public speaking opportunities); liaison with the Bar Association of the District of Columbia; and a committee to assist in the planning of the proposed new Law Center. A full social and professional program is presented annually by the SBA.

A Board of Governors election is held in April of each year. The Board consists of eleven elected and five appointed members.

The Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity was established in Chicago, Illinois, in November 1902. The fraternity is a national organization composed of seventy-five student chapters, including Jay Chapter at George Washington University, and thirty alumni chapters. Student chapters are located only in Class A law schools which are members of the Association of American Law Schools.

It is a primary function of the fraternity to foster friendship, cooperation, and a high code of professional ethics among its many thousands of brothers throughout the nation. Among the outstanding persons now living who are members of the fraternity are former President Truman, Vice President Nixon, former Vice President Barkley and Supreme Court Justices Burton, Clark, and Douglas.

Jay Chapter, with one hundred thirty-five brothers and pledges, is one of the largest and most active student chapters in the entire fraternity. Each semester outstanding members of the bench and bar, as well as of the Congress of the United States, are invited to speak at professional meetings sponsored by the chapter. In addition, members are encouraged to take an active part in all Law School activities.

The Van Vleck Case Club is an extra-curricular organization whose purpose is to enable law students to gain experience in appellate practice by preparing and arguing moot cases before a simulated appellate court. In an annual competition, consisting of preliminaries, semifinals and finals, participants are judged on the excellence of their written briefs and oral arguments and on their grasp of the pertinent points of the law as demonstrated by their response to questions from the judges. The bench for the finals customarily comprises members of the United States Supreme Court and the United States Court of Appeals.

Each year the ablest participants in the competition are selected to represent the Law School in a nation-wide inter-school Moot court competition.

Amicus Curiae is a law school professional paper that was established in the spring semester of the academic year of 1951-52. The purpose of Amicus Curiae is to supplement the education and the information of the student of the law. The members of the staff are students in the law school.

Amicus Curiae is professional in nature but is not in any way competitive with The George Washington University Law Review which is devoted exclusively to the public law.

Amicus Curiae is published in cooperation with the faculty of the law school and The George Washington Law Association. The latter sponsors an issue of Amicus Curiae each academic school year which is mailed to the sixty-three hundred alumni of the law school.

Amicus Curiae is published four times each semester and is available to all law students.

Since its organization in 1884, the John Marshall Inn of Phi Delta Phi Legal Fraternity, the oldest professional fraternity in America, has proven to be one of the truly strong and enduring institutions on The George Washington University campus. At present, Marshall Inn has an active membership of approximately sixty students with many members of the University Law School faculty also on an active status.

The annual program of fraternity activities includes eight professional meetings featuring prominent local attorneys and leaders in all branches of the Federal government as speakers, three banquets in honor of newly initiated members, fall and spring dances, and a summer picnic. Phi Delta Phi Barrister Inns, of which there are over fifty in various cities, afford the alumni member a continuing program of fraternal and professional activities.

All of Marshall Inn's functions have been uniformly well-attended and pleasant occasions of informal companionship with one's fellow students and his professors. But most important, participation in Phi Delta Phi activities offers the earnest law student unmatched opportunities for an early awareness of the practical legal problems and techniques not emphasized in the curriculum, as well as helpful guidance to a more general understanding of the profession for which he is studying to be a member.

Mortar Board is The George Washington University senior honorary for women. The members of Mortar Board are selected on the basis of scholarship and leadership qualities in University activities. The members of Mortar Board are tapped each year at the May Day Assembly and then are feted at an initiation luncheon.

Mortar Board's year of activities starts out with orientation week in the fall. At this time they usher at freshman orientation assemblies, staff an information booth both days of registration, present a skit on typical classroom characters at the Big Sisters Coffee Hour, and tap the new members of Tassels, the honorary for sophomore women.

December always brings the Mortar Board Smarty Party to which all junior and senior women with a 3.0 average or above are invited. This year's party was highlighted by a visit from Santa Claus and Christmas Carol singing.

One of the most outstanding events on the Mortar Board calendar is the tapping of the Outstanding Sophomore Woman in May.

The members of Mortar Board can always be looked to as women of campus leadership and of the desire to help campus life in any way.

Omicron Delta Kappa is the national honorary for men who are outstanding in the fields of scholarship, social and religious activities, athletics, publications, music, debate and dramatics. Members of O.D.K. must also be in the upper third of their class.

New members of O.D.K. are tapped annually at the Homecoming Dance and at the Interfraternity Sing. O.D.K. also serves as a service honorary in that members participate in University projects, taking an integral part in the planning of Freshman Orientation Week and the program on how to study. O.D.K. is also represented on the Student Life Committee as well as many other committees.

Faculty members, too, are initiated into the Alpha Delta chapter with the result of an increase in student and faculty cooperation and understanding. Twice each year Dr. Marvin and other notable alumni join the active members of O.D.K. for a banquet.

O.D.K. selects its members in such a way as to insure good distribution and representation in the organization. O.D.K. truly represents all phases of collegiate life at The George Washington University.

Membership in Delphi is conferred only upon those sorority women who have made outstanding contributions to sorority life at the University in the opinion of their individual sorority and the members of Delphi. This honorary organization's purpose is to promote intersorority spirit and increase social life among women of Greek organizations. In fulfilling its purpose, Delphi has a full schedule and many activities necessary for the success of sorority life. Each Spring and Fall Delphi handles rush registration and in an attempt to give the prospective sorority member an idea of campus attire, Delphi sponsors a fashion show. When the rushee ceases to be and the pledge appears this organization issues invitations to all the pledges of all sororities to participate in a pledge workshop. In this workshop the pledges have an opportunity to discuss the rush system, to understand the advantages of sorority life and to obtain a glimpse of the universality of Greek organizations. Not only does Delphi aid in the orientation of the rushee and pledge but also it sponsors many intersorority exchanges which make the members more aware of the necessity of a panhellenic spirit among the women's Greek organizations.

DELPHI

Panhellenic spirit displayed at this Delphi meeting.

GATE AND KEY

The members of the honorary fraternity, Gate and Key, consist of fraternity men who have made an exceptional contribution to their particular fraternity and to the Greek world as a whole. All new members are nominated by their own fraternity and then are elected by the members of Gate and Key. The announcing of all new members of this organization was one of the highlights featured at this year's Homecoming Dance. Other tappings take place not only at the Homecoming Dance, but also at the IFC prom in the Spring. One of the most looked forward to features of Gate and Key is the annual award of the Order of the Lacy Garter. This presentation is also made in the Spring.

Gate and Key was founded at The George Washington University and now has rapidly spread to the campuses of other universities and colleges such as the chapter at Maryland University, Penn State and William and Mary. Gate and Key has long been noted for its good parties, but besides the social part, there is an earnest endeavor in every member to maintain the ideals of fraternity life and to work for the betterment of the fraternity system.

Bob McGrath, president, calls out the names of new members at Homecoming.

TOM BROWN
1954-55 Student Council President

Directly sponsoring and controlling all student activities, the Student Council is composed of the President, Vice-President, Secretary, Comptroller, Advocate, Activities Director, Publicity Director, Member at Large, Student Union Chairman, and one representative from each of the eight schools and colleges of the University. The principal function of the Student Council is to regulate, coordinate, and supervise the various phases of activities on campus in order that each student will have the opportunity to actively participate in college life at The George Washington University.

The "Campus Combo" was introduced this fall for the first time at the University by the Student Council. An overwhelming success, the "Campus Combo" included Colonial Boosters series, the CHERRY TREE, the modern dance and drama productions, the spring outing, the fashion show, and Homecoming for a reduced wholesale rate. Other successfully accomplished projects were the Freshmen Orientation pre-school activities, the calendar supervision to prevent conflict of activities held during the year, the introduction of live band music at the Student Union at lunch, and Homecoming which featured an outstanding Pep Rally, Variety Show and formal dance with music by Johnny Long and Jack Morton.

George Washington students can be proud of the work the Student Council has contributed to the student body during the year 1954-55.

The Women's Recreation Association creates an interest in women's athletics by providing a varied program of athletic activities that has made the campus sports-conscious and has helped to promote leadership. This is in line with the purpose of the Association, which is to create and to sponsor an active interest in recreational participation at the University, to provide a varied program of recreational activities by which the desires and interests of the largest number of women students may be realized, to make the campus award of the best standards of recreation, and to promote recreational leadership.

"I shall have so much experience for my pains." Beneficial or not, these words from "Othello" became the motto of the CHERRY TREE staff as they searched the works of Shakespeare, sat on those innumerable booths, sold ads, or covered University events and organizations.

The 1955 CHERRY TREE is the product of a staff inexperienced but willing to work. Editors started planning the book in the late spring and summer of 1954 and work continued for most of the school year. Though inexperienced, the staff soon got into the swing of things. The third floor of the Student Union Annex became a second home as many afternoons and evenings were spent bent over copy material with a coke in one hand and a pencil in the other. Then somehow, the book was at the printers and here is the result.

So—"Brush up your Shakespeare" and we hope you have a good time doing it.

Tuesday night rewrite by Hatchet editors.

THE HATCHET

Whenever you see a mob gathering in the Union on Tuesday with an air of expectancy you know that the cause of this uproar is because it is publication day for the University Hatchet. The first thing that a Greek will do is rapidly tear the paper apart until he discovers Hester Heale's Foggy Bottom. A glance at the Sports Page and then all of George Washington's ardent students settle down to its serious reading, that is as serious as Max Shulman's column can get. The more intelligent will read the editorials, the whimsical will flip to the doodles, and finally the hungry will turn to the list of Job Jots as required reading.

Behind the scenes The Hatchet office is a spot of genial relaxation until Sunday night when all the members of the staff realize that a deadline is due and so whip our University Hatchet into the shape the students find the following Tuesday. All of this gaiety is transformed into our weekly publication and once again G. W. students have a newspaper well done and very interesting to read.

COLONIAL

Dell Brown receives the Booster Cup for ZTA from Chairman Doris Bruffey.

The purpose of the Colonial Boosters at The George Washington University is to coordinate and direct school spirit. With this purpose in mind, the Booster Board organizes pep rallies, parades, cavalcades to away games, and half time entertainment. This year Boosters also made an award of a radio to the student who guessed the identity of George and Martha Washington. This presentation was made at the Homecoming pep rally. The Booster books which could be bought independently or as part of the Campus Combo entitled each holder to two seats in the Booster section at both football and basketball games. This section is the one which constituted the heart of the cheering section. To add to the fun shakers and colonial flags were distributed at the games to those sitting in the booster section. Boosters also promoted poster contests and float contests by awarding a cup to the winning sorority and fraternity. In the eyes of the Booster Board this fraternity and sorority had done the most to promote school spirit and enthusiasms. This year Boosters promoted school spirit which was larger and better than ever. To this hard working group the students of The George Washington University offer a big vote of thanks.

DANCE PRODUCTION GROUPS

Dancing is fun. One of the most popular activities at the University, dance is furthered in its art and recreational forms by the Dance Production Groups. Under the able direction of Elizabeth Burtner, head of dance, and assisted by Evelyn Loehofer and Tom Pence, the Groups enjoyed another active and productive year.

Record crowds attended the square and folk dances held on Thursday evenings in Building J. New friends were made by many in the informal atmosphere created by the Virginia Reel or Swedish Schottisch. Unusual themes, ranging from "The Pillroller's Ball" to "A Woman's World" sparked the free Friday night social dances, co-sponsored by the Student Council. Well-planned entertainment was an important factor in accounting for the success of the affairs, as well as the crowds which filled the first floor of the Student Union.

Numerous students joined the social dance club in which Gus Panagos taught the fundamental and advanced steps of rhumba, jitterbug, tango, samba, waltz and fox trot.

An opportunity to freely express oneself in modern dance is afforded by the Dance Production Groups. Technique, composition and performance are stressed. Top members of the University's dance group participated in a master lesson in dance given by Louis Horst at Maryland University. A return engagement was paid to Coolidge High School in January when Lillemor Spitzer, assisted by other members of the Dance Production Group, conducted a master lesson in modern dance. A charming performance was given in the Pageant of Peace on the Ellipse at Christmastime. The annual Dance Concert was held in March, featuring "The Queen's Conscience," "Beatrice the Ballerina," and "Abstractions."

The Dramatic Activities of The George Washington University have become more and more a necessary part of our campus life. It is established on a community-university basis with actors drawn from both the University and the community. Most of the backstage work is done by students.

The first dramatic production, given in early December was "George Washington Slept Here." It was directed by Forney Reese.

In the spring the University dramatic group presented "The Detective Story." It was directed this time by Joan Vale, a graduate of Catholic University. Joan Vale had previously directed a play on the Arena Stage.

Another entertaining program this year was the University "Variety Show" presented in April.

As a result of the Campus Combo, all George Washington students holding a Combo ticket were given a seat at each dramatic production throughout the year. This tended to promote more interest in the dramatic productions. The dramatic activities at George Washington were truly worth while and entertaining this year.

The members of The George Washington University Glee Club sing not only for their own entertainment but also for the entertainment of others. From the Messiah the George Washington Glee Club is selected. This year the Glee Club contributed to the Homecoming Pep Rally by singing several songs suitable to the occasion. Around Christmas time they added greatly to the Christmas tree lighting ceremony by singing carols and also by the annual presentation of the Messiah.

Another program of the Glee Club was the Spring Concert.

Honors are presented to those who have been a member of the Glee Club for three years. Some of its other activities include several parties held throughout the year.

Under the able leadership of our "Doc" Harmon, the Glee Club is one of the most active and interesting organizations at the George Washington University. With the wealth of talent in this group all who have the opportunity to hear them are thoroughly entertained.

GLEE CLUB

TROUBADOURS

A small, select section of the Glee Club is the Traveling Troubadors. This singing group travels all over the world giving performances for everyone's enjoyment. Last summer the Troubadors went to the Azores and Newfoundland. At Christmas time they boarded a plane and headed for parts of Greenland, Labrador and Newfoundland. During this annual trip the Traveling Troubadors entertained servicemen all through the holidays.

The Troubadors encountered all types of unusual and interesting experiences. In Thule, it was dark all the time. One of the highlights of the trip was singing the Messiah on Christmas Eve after giving two variety shows that same day. Another experience was singing on a snow truck in a hanger in freezing weather. Then the Troubadors traveled to Hopewell, an isolated spot where no women had been for two years. Finally after a series of flights to numerous other bases the group went back to Pepperill, Newfoundland for a New Years Eve show, and then back to Washington.

Big Sis is the George Washington University's helper in orienting new women students to college life. Each member of Big Sis is assigned little sisters before school begins. It is her job to contact those little sisters, meet them and then help them in any way possible to become acquainted with the University. During orientation week Big Sis gives a Coffee Hour in the Student Union when all Big and little Sisters meet to go over registration blanks and class schedules. Mortar Board puts on its "Classroom Types", showing how not to act in the classroom during the Tips and Teas with Topnotchers. At this affair, the little sisters are also introduced to campus leaders. This year the Casual Corner presented a fashion show with members of Delphi Modeling. This was thoroughly enjoyed by both big and little sisters as it demonstrated the appropriate dress for different campus affairs. Big Sisters then helped their little sisters through registration and the first few weeks of school. They also accompanied these new students to chapel on Wednesdays and gave Nosebag luncheons which were held in the Big Sis Lounge.

Girls living in Strong Hall, the dormitory for women students of the George Washington University have organized the Strong Hall Council which is their governing body. The council is made up of the two girls from each floor of the dorm. The president of the council is elected in March by all of the girls in the dorm, she then acts as chairman of the council which organizes the business and social activities of Strong Hall.

The council also handles all complaints, enforces dorm regulations and plans social activities in order to unify and make the dorm more home-like in atmosphere. Among some of the social activities are parties given during orientation week, Halloween, Thanksgiving and Christmas. Numerous teas are given, one honoring some of the professors in the University and some in the form of exchanges between the different floors of the dormitory.

The Strong Hall council sees to it that all women students living there feel welcome to the University and also they guide and help these students in their problems.

The purpose of the Sailing Association is to promote better seamanship, greater appreciation for sailing as a recreation and a sport, and to engage in intercollegiate competition. The Association is co-educational, and is strictly a social and recreational group. Instructions in sailing are offered to the inexperienced. Sailing programs are held every week-end. The George Washington University Band has been undergoing a period of building up and perfecting its talent for several years. It has now become a part of the university spirit which is unequalled. The University band plays a large role in adding to the spirit and gaiety of both football games and basketball games. Its repertoire consists of such songs as "When The Saints Go Marching In," the Bunny Hop, which ably accompanies the University's cheerleaders in one of their cheers, and chants which promote school spirit and enthusiasm. One of the remembered features of this year's Homecoming activities was the University Band playing its way up and down "G" street. Its presence was also felt at pep rallies as well as at the games.

The students of The George Washington University can well be proud of their band. It has become a permanent part of our school and our school's functions.

The building up process has been ably guided and directed by Doris Severe Bruffey who now acts as its president.

The Newman Club is more than a school year organization. Its purpose is to bring together Catholic college students in a program of faith, fun, and facts, at its weekly meetings held in Monroe 100. Its President leads a group seeking to enrich their own lives thru a well grounded knowledge of their faith and culture.

Although the Newman Club is basically a religious organization, it participates in a busy social life. Homecoming this year brought the Newman Club the trophy for the best float in the organizational division, while Religion-in-Life week found its many members in cooperation with other religious organizations busy planning for the success of this annual week dedicated to the emphasis of religion in life. Following through the year the Newman Club held its annual Christmas Party which climaxes the Fall Semester. Focal points of the Spring Semester for the Newman Club is the annual Campus Celebrity Capers. At this dance open to all University students, ten outstanding seniors were awarded certificates of merit.

Hillel, which is one of 200 foundations at universities and colleges in the United States and foreign countries, provides Jewish students of The George Washington University with personal counselling, plus services for all needs such as culture, religion and social. Activities throughout the school year include dances, parties, public affairs, forums, films, lectures, charity drives, Sabbath and High Holiday services, coffee hours, and discussion groups. Besides all of this activity The George Washington University Hillel Foundation gives an annual dance called "Ball of Fire." This dance is always eagerly awaited by all George Washington students not only for the gaiety of the dance, but also because of the crowning of our school Apollo. Another interest of Hillel is in the journalistic field. Besides publishing their own newspaper called the Hillel Commentary, Hillel sponsors an annual creative writing contest open to all students. To mention a few other activities would be the courses in Hebrew for Jewish students, art, choral, crafts and dramatic groups plus the maintenance of its own snack bar. The common interests of all Hillel members make it a very worthwhile, enjoyable and progressive group.

INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL

The Interfraternity Council is the coordinating and governing board of the fourteen member fraternities on the George Washington campus. The three main objectives of the Interfraternity Council are service to member fraternities, service to the University and service to the community and nation. Part of the service to member fraternities is the annual Greek Week celebration starting off with the fraternity officers' banquet and the officers' forums. Each night during Greek Week several chapters hold open houses for the remaining fraternities. The annual IFC Sing held at Lisner Auditorium is another feature of Greek Week. The highlight of the Greek Week celebration is the IFC Prom which attracts the largest turnouts of Greeks during the entire year.

Part of the University service program this year was the IFC Band Fund Drive. The spirit and cooperation of the Greeks during this drive ensures us a fine band for next year. Community and national service projects include the annual help day program and the continued support of the IFC war orphan, Kim Yung Duk, adopted in 1954.

Promoting and furthering intersorority relations is the main purpose of the Panhellenic Council. Composed of one delegate and the president of each of the eleven sororities, it serves both as a legislative and judicial body. The offices of the Council rotate yearly among the sororities in the order of their founding on campus. Starting with Membership Selection in the fall, the Panhellenic Council organizes and supervises "rush" and determines the rules for pledging. During Orientation Week, the Panhel Council acquaints new women students with Greek life. Junior Panhellenic is organized by the Council with the Vice-president of Panhel acting as supervisor to the pledge representatives. During the spring, the Council sponsors the Panhellenic Sing and the Panhellenic Prom. To promote scholarship among the sororities, Panhel annually awards cups to the chapter with the highest academic averages. Cups are also awarded to the individual members with outstanding scholastic achievements.

TRAINING SQUADRON

"To prepare men for responsible positions as commissioned officers in The Regular Air Force, The Air National Guard, and The Air Force Reserve." This is the purpose of the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps. Under the direction of Colonel Carl Swyter, Director, Division of Air Science, the University R.O.T.C. unit has shown outstanding achievement in integrating its program with that of the University, to provide well trained officers as leaders in tomorrow's Air Force.

All cadets attend classes where they are taught subjects that will aid them in their future careers as Air Force officers. Every cadet also attends leadership laboratory once a week, where they can practice the principles of leadership and command, that are so essential to a good officer. In addition to this regular curriculum the Corps also assumes university functions; such as ushering at various gatherings, and escorting the Homecoming Queen candidates at the Homecoming Pep Rally. Perhaps the unit's proudest function is their engagement in various parades throughout the school year; it is here that the cadets get a chance to "strut their stuff" in front of a crowd.

The Organization of the various flights of cadets was headed in the fall by Cadet Richard Hudgins, who was appointed Lieutenant Colonel in the organization. The G.W.U. detachment is divided into squadrons which are further subdivided into flights. This division enables the cadet to acquaint himself with the administration and operation that is used in the organization of an actual Air Force unit. Further, it gives every advanced cadet an opportunity of assuming a position of leadership.

Among the activities associated with the Division of Air Science of the University is the Arnold Air Society, a national honorary military society for advanced course cadets. The Society was activated at the University in the fall of 1952 and was named in honor of General Carl Spaatz, the first Chief of Staff of the Air Force. Serving as a hub for cadet activities, the Arnold Air Society sponsors social functions, one of which is the annual Cadet Ball.

Another national military society, mainly for basic cadets, is the Pershing Rifles, established here in March, 1953. Led by Cadet Major Stewart Mooney, the Pershing Rifles maintains expert drill teams and provides social activities for its members. In addition to participation in University and civic functions, the Pershing Rifles has taken part in drill meets with other R.O.T.C. units to widen the scope of their training. With Lt. Calvin L. Frederick as their advisor, the Pershing Rifles hope to maintain, and even surpass their previous outstanding record.

In addition to these groups is the Rifle Team which participates in many inter-school meets during the school year and provides excellent training in marksmanship. The team was established in 1951.

To keep the cadets advised on the gossip and intrigues of the corps, The Colonial Cadet is published monthly. This is a newspaper by and for the Cadet Corps. It is headed by PIO Cadet Major Ralph Furtner and advised by Major Willard A. Delano.

This year's meetings were enhanced by a program of guest speakers discussing Air Force topics of value and interest to the Sponsors.

An honorary and service organization, the Squadron's twenty-five members are selected on the basis of appearance, scholarship, character, leadership in extra-curricular activities, and potential service to the A.F.R.O.T.C. From this group, a Cadet Queen is chosen at the annual Cadet Ball.

A REVIEW OF THE SEASON

Many times, an unsuccessful season in the won and lost column is looked upon with a bit of satisfaction, the feeling being that "it's not so much who won, but how they played the game." Intercollegiate athletics not only builds undefeated teams, national champions and football giants, but also puts together a combination of hustle, determination and fair play, from which emerges perhaps not a constant winner but a team in the true sense of the word—a team pulling together and doing their utmost.

Such was the Colonials 1954 gridiron season. Not a victorious year by any means, but a successful one; GW wasn't a familiar name in the winner's circle, but the Buff scored first and most often when sports fans finally came down to "how the game was played."

With Coach Bo Sherman in his third year at the helm of Colonial football fortunes, GW dug up a whirlwind schedule, playing West Virginia, 1953 Sugar Bowl Contestant and Southern Conference Champion; powerful Maryland, who played in the Orange Bowl and was number one in the nation as polled by the country's sports writers; Wake Forest, strong, fast and one of the Atlantic Coast Conference favorites; Pennsylvania, Ivy League perennial favorite; the University of Virginia, always a strong team in the Atlantic Coast Conference and this year studded with new and improving material; William and Mary, one of the Southern Conference's better teams; Richmond and VMI, always tough GW opponents; and VPI, picked by the national sports writers as "a sleeper."

The Buff, crippled by the loss of All-American Steve Korcheck and a host of first string linemen, were destined to rely on inexperience in their forward wall coupled with spotty offensive play. Swinging into action a large crop of freshmen and sophomore linemen, the Colonials found that experience is not only the best teacher, but also a powerful gridiron tool. Sherman could call on only one returning regular, center Dick Gaspari, to rebuild his line from tackle to tackle, but the grief ended there as four veteran ends and seven battle-tested backs were on hand to compensate in part for this shortage of experienced linemen.

Gaspari, smashing line backer and sixty minute man most of the season, was a power on both offense and defense. Dick teamed with Ed Sakatch and Bob Sutton, sophomores from Pennsylvania who came to the Buff with brilliant reputations and in part lived up to their press notices. The 225 pound Sakatch was a hard man to move in the Colonial forward wall as was Sutton—200 pounds of dynamite on downfield blocking and a rough customer anywhere on the field. Al Solomon, a senior from Washington, D.C., moved in midway during the season to a starting berth. Fairly light at 185 pounds, Al hit very hard and gave the Colonials a big lift on defense with his fine, reliable performance.

As tackles went, GW fared very well with Bill McHenry and John Ziamandanis filling the slots adequately. Ziamandanis, one of the few experienced men in the line, solved many of Sherman's problems with his hard hitting style of play; McHenry, a junior who suffered from lack of experience, saw much action and toward the end of the year was shaping into a top-notch tackle. Ed Rutsch and Bill Berry, both freshmen this year, saw considerable action and should be ready next year for conference honors.

On the ends, the Buff found a great deal to rejoice over. Ritchie Gaskell, brilliant pass-receiving end who for two years now has been All Southern Conference, got off to a late start but was as dangerous as ever once he got squared away.

Lou Donofrio and an unidentified Colonial bring down a VPI ball carrier. Len Cierniecki stands by just in case help is needed.

George Dancu and Pat Kober were rough men to tangle with as was rangy Paul Thompson, a sophomore from Maryland, who was a top all-around end all year.

With Arnie Tranen and Bob Sturm engineering the GW Split-T attack the Colonials had good quarterbacking at times. Tranen, a converted halfback, was an excellent passer and gave the Buff a good air attack with his pin point aerials; Sturm, his reliable ball handling and short aerials spacing the Colonials attack was, along with Tranen, good quarterback insurance.

Halfbacks Bill Weaver and Len Cierniecki, along with Arlin Barr, Claude Austin and Lou Donofrio, gave a good account of themselves. One had to like the flashy Cierniecki as he picked up large chunks of yardage on around end plays; Weaver, a hard hitting line plunger, usually picked up good yardage for the Colonials. After the loss of first string Joe Boland in the first game due to an injury, Norb Danz filled in as fullback and was one of the brightest lights that shone all year. Dutch was a workhorse, playing sixty minutes a game, and pounding out the big yardage when needed.

First on the Colonials slate was powerful Wake Forest.

The scoreboard tells the story as the Buff fail to get that much needed touchdown against Richmond.

The Deacons, with experience galore and a more thoroughly conditioned team, nevertheless found the going rough, but with two late touchdowns overcame the stubborn Colonials, 14-0. All day it was GW moving, then fumbling away opportunities or Wake Forest starting a drive only to be stopped by the defensive strength of the Buff forward wall, out-manned and out-experienced but not out-hustled. Special orchids went to Dick Gaspari who played a bang-up game as a portent of things to come. Standouts for the Deacons were All-American Bob Bartholomew, a block busting tackle, and Joe White, a fine passer and quarterback.

VMI taught the Colonials that the game is never over until the final whistle sounds. Not content to settle for a 14-14 tie, the Colonials elected to gamble on a last second pass by quarterback Arnie Tranen from the Buff 3 yard line. As the final whistle blew, Tranen was smothered by the entire center of the Keydet line, led by Charlie Byrd, Jerry Kress, Buck Boxley and Bill Miller, for a safety to give VMI a hard fought victory, 16-14.

The Colonials, carrying a 14-7 lead into the final quarter, found the Keydets not willing to give up the ghost. After Arnie Tranen punted into the end zone the Keydets marched 80 yards on 13 plays with Charles Lavery and Nick Servidio carrying most of the load for the tying score. Tranen's passes were a big feature of the day as he picked up 105 yards via the air ways to spark the Colonial offense, passing 35 yards to Len Ciemniecki for one score. Bill Weaver tallied the other touchdown for the Buff, capping a 65 yard drive with a one yard smash.

Then the University of Virginia showed the Colonials a different way to lose a football game. This wasn't an easy one for the Buff to drop, the margin of defeat being a mere one point—a missed extra point.

Outplaying the Cavaliers at every turn, GW made amends for their fine play by fumbling away the ball four times and having two passes intercepted, handing Virginia one score and giving the Southerners a big push toward the other. And yet with all this assistance, it was the Cavaliers on the short end of a 13-7 count late in the fourth quarter—that is until the Colonials stepped in and gave them the ball on the GW 32 yard line with four minutes to play in the game. Weaver, punting from deep in his own territory, got off a poor kick which in turn hit a GW player; the ensuing penalty gave Virginia the ball and in six plays the Cavaliers handed the Colonials their third straight defeat of the 1954 season. Reserve quarterback Billy Clarke plunged over from the one to cap the short drive after another reserve, sub halfback Steve Hoffer, had reeled off gains of 12 and 13 yards. And then Steve Knowles stepped back in the dusk and quiet of Scott Stadium to add the extra point that spelled victory for Virginia.

The following week it was the fourth quarter that beat the Colonials. With it came West Virginia's power and GW's fourth straight loss, 13-7.

Leading 7-6 in the final period, the Colonials threatened to upset the four touchdown favorite Mountaineers. Most of the afternoon, it had been GW constantly stopping the West Virginia power from scoring; now the Buff had even gone ahead in the third period and the Mountaineers' Homecoming crowd of 20,000 pleaded with their team to pull the game out. And then it happened!

Skinny Saffer neatly sidesteps three would-be tacklers in the William and Mary game.

A gang of VPI ballplayers pull down Skinny Saffer.

Nine plays after Arnie Tranen had punted on the GW 45, West Virginia had the lead back and with it their reputation and ranking, though dented a trifle. With quarterback Fred Wyant calling nothing but straight power plays up the middle of the Colonial line, magnificent all day long on defense, the Mountaineers finally crashed through to score.

Next GW travelled up to the Ivy League and the University of Pennsylvania. Playing before the biggest crowd of the year, and in one of America's largest stadiums, the Colonials finally broke through into the victory column with a spectacular 32-27 win. The G Streeters started off like a whirlwind, getting 20 points before Penn could muster a score. The game was only two minutes and forty seconds old when Richie Gaskell intercepted a Quaker pass and romped 85 yards for his first touchdown of 1954.

Eleven minutes later Bill Weaver went off right tackle to cap a 29 yard drive that was featured by Len Ciemniecki's brilliant play on an Arnie Tranen pass.

Not content with two scores, the aroused visitors hit pay dirt again when a Tranen pass to Paul Thompson clicked for 49 yards. With 25 seconds remaining in the half, Penn tallied a six pointer. The second half found Penn in a come back mood and in five minutes the score was 20-13, only a seven point margin for the Colonials. It was Richie Gaskell who provided the spark necessary to win, taking a 37 yard pass from Weaver for a touchdown. From here on in it was touch and go with GW going the furthest and finally winning out in the fourth quarter, 32-27.

The Colonials were up to their old tricks against William and Mary. Accustomed in the past this season to giving away football games to the opposition, GW spiked all existing rumors to the effect that they had thrown off this none too popular nor prosperous habit for more conventional ways. Handing William and Mary two touchdowns on fumbles, the Colonials had to salvage a tie in the fourth quarter, achieved by a brilliant 52 yard pass play from quarterback Bob Sturm to end Richie Gaskell who had gotten in behind the defense on the 12 yard line.

For GW it was a great second half defensive line that saved the day. Led by Pat Kober, Dick Gaspari and John Ziamandanis, the Colonials' forward wall was immovable on defense. Offensively it was a different story. Backs like Danz, Ciemniecki and Tranen couldn't break loose for much yardage as the holes were not open and consequently GW's rushing game was off. The saving power for the Colonials was their "B" team which outplayed and outthrustled the first team considerably; when things got rough it was this swift charging outfit which was thrown into the game and who salvaged the 14-14 tie for GW in the fourth quarter.

It was too much Tom Theodose against Richmond. The Spider quarterback did everything right—running, passing, and kicking Richmond to a 7-0 shutout victory.

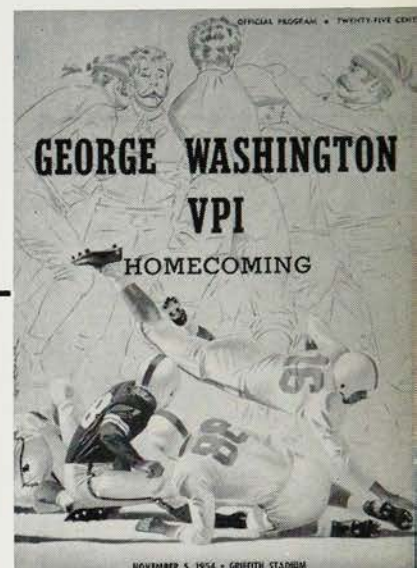

Completely "out-statisticed" all night, the Richmond club made good their one chance to score. After Arnie Tranen punted from deep in Colonial territory, the men of Richmond, paced by the ever present Theodose, moved smartly from the Buff 46 to the 11. On the next play Theodose swung wide from his single wing tailback spot and romped the remaining yardage to paydirt. That was the ball game.

In front of an ice-bitten Homecoming crowd at Griffith Stadium, the Gobblers from VPI set down George Washington, 20-13.

Virginia Tech, riddled with injuries, showed that the passing arm of John Dean could be replaced as fill-in quarterback Billy Cranwell hurled two tallies and sub halfback Billy Anderson tossed another.

VPI clinched the game in the third quarter when halfback Anderson pitched to Petty after a double reverse. The score came after a GW fumble, following the pattern of most of the year. The Colonials outplayed the Gobblers in the second half, scoring twice and dominating the statistics, but a hard hitting scoring punch was lacking. It seemed for awhile the man to "go" for GW was veteran full back Joe Boland, who was put in during the third quarter. Boland crashed across from the twelve only to have the score called back because of a holding penalty, after having almost single handedly moved the ball from GW's 41, picking up 35 yards in five carries.

The ground attack for GW was led by fullback Dutch Danz who piled up 72 yards and Bill Weaver who powered his way across for both of the Colonial scores. The Buff showed a brilliant passing attack with Sturm and Arnie

Len Ciemniecki breaks loose for a long gain against William and Mary.

Tranen completing 11 out of 21 attempts in spite of the freezing weather.

This was the end! It had all begun two months ago against Wake Forest and now the climax had come. Maryland, last year's national champions, helped the Colonials finish up their dismal season in defeat to the crushing tune of 48-6.

Mighty Maryland, flashing their All-American form so reminiscent of the past two years, was in no mood to either let the determination of the Colonials nor the thick mud of Byrd Stadium get in their way as they prepared for a New Year's Day bowl bid in lashing the GW squad unmercifully. Slow starting, the powerful Terps gained momentum in a surging third period scoring spree of 29 points and thereafter steamed to their fourth straight victory before 23,000 fans. Only bright spot for the Colonial team was a fourth period touchdown pass from Arnie Tranen to freshman Mike Sommer which spoiled Maryland's bid for its fifth shutout of the year.

The tinge of unsuccess that paints the George Washington 1954 football season is colored with a bright glow of achievement—not one of victory as expressed on the scoreboard in games won and lost, but a victory beyond the gridiron, a triumph in "how the game was played."

Captain Corky Devlin coolly sinks this twisting layup, despite the efforts of the Wake Forest defenders.

1 9 5 4 - 1 9 5 5

The close guarding of the Maryland defenders is not enough to keep Corky bottled up.

A chipped heel and a grueling thirty game schedule spelled disaster for one of the nation's leading teams. Consistently one of the nation's ten top teams and the winner of two major college tournaments; the Colonials lost a heartbreaking overtime thriller to West Virginia in the finals of the Southern Conference basketball tournament. Had it not been for the chipped heel of center Joe Holup and a very long hard season, our boys might have brought home even more laurels.

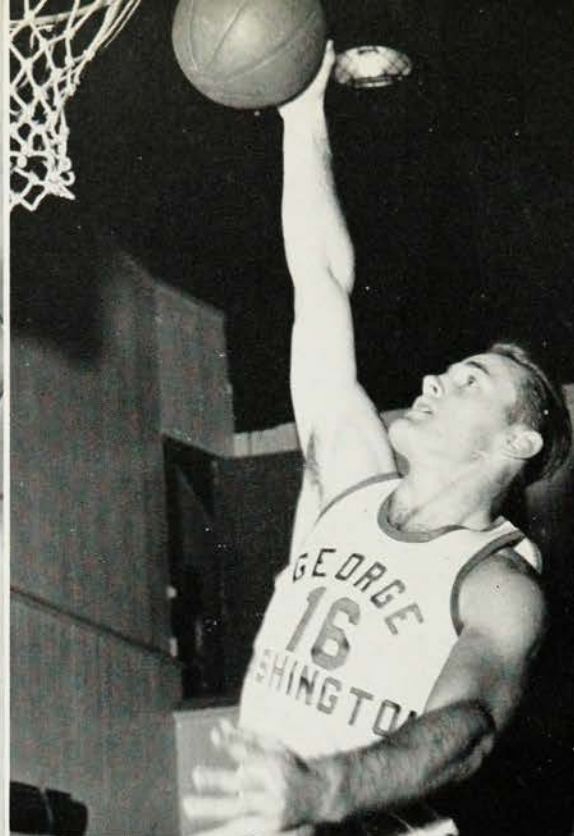

Led by senior captain Corky Devlin and Joe Holup, who both received All-American mention, the Buff won the Steel Bowl tournament, the Richmond tournament, and copped the newly inaugurated Big Three Cup. Their victims included such powerhouses as Duquesne, Wake Forest, Duke, Maryland, and Richmond. Both Joe and Corky were honored by selection on the Southern Conference all star team. Other boys who contributed heavily to the Colonial cause were Joe Petcavich, Buzzy Ciriello, George Klein, Ed Catino, and Jay Manning.

Despite the fact that they lose Devlin, Ciriello, and Catino, next year's team should again be one of the nation's powerhouses, with four of the first seven returning, and a fine group of boys ready to move up from the junior varsity.

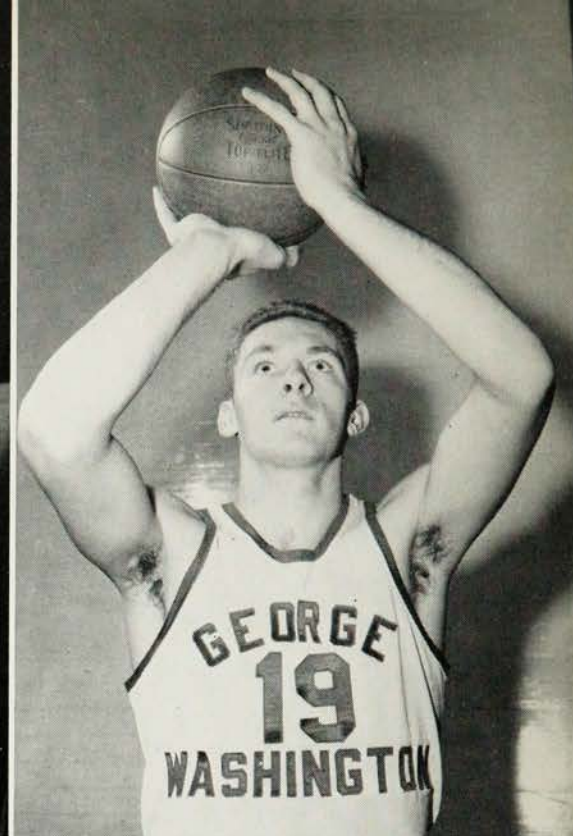

Although they didn't win the Southern Conference tournament, the University can be very proud of the fine basketball displayed by the Colonials this past season, and, perhaps, even more trophies may be added to our newly acquired trophy case by next year's team.

Win, lose or draw, the cheerleaders are always on hand to instill spirit into our teams and fans. Captained by Bobbie Ruth Moore, the squad did a remarkable job at the pep rallies and games leading the cheers for the Buff and Blue. Rallies held in the Union brought out unheard of spirit. Members of the squad pictured below are:

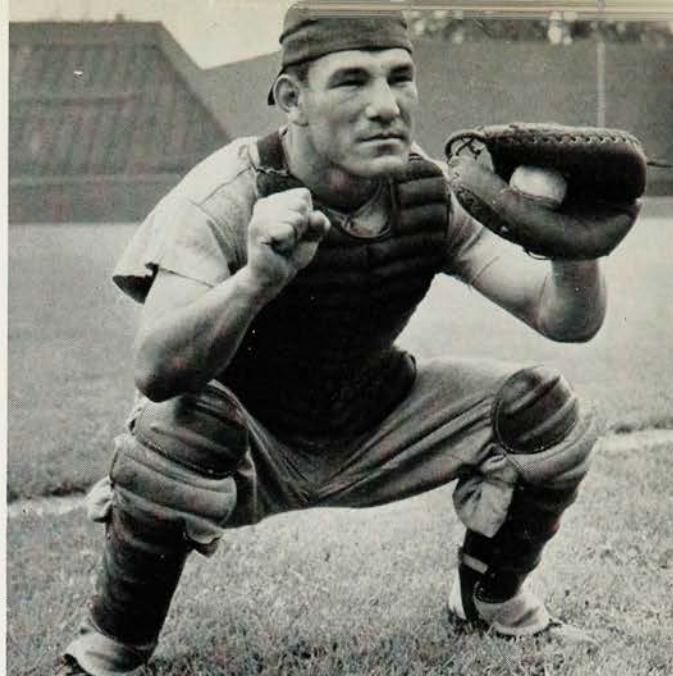

FIRST ROW: Bettie Kolonia, Bobbie Ruth Moore, Ruth Berryman.

SECOND ROW: Bev Alexander, Sharlie West, Scoots Cowdin, Betsy Silver.

BASEBALL

SITTING: S. Walowac, P. Stroup, S. Saffer, J. Papparella, S. Korcheck, B. Fredericks, J. Hill, B. Reed, J. Nedrow, C. Cato. STANDING: V. deAngelis (asst. coach), S. Bauk, F. Kovach, R. Sweeney, J. Marvel, D. Giesler, B. Reinhart (coach).

Despite a disastrous road trip where they lost three straight games, the Buff finished the 1954 baseball season with a very creditable 16-7-1 record. The Colonials were again winners of the area championship, beating both Georgetown and Maryland twice. A tie with Maryland was the only blot on their area record.

Led by Steve Korcheck, who was the most valuable player on the team for the second straight year, the team barely missed winning the Southern Conference Championship. Headlining a fine pitching staff were Steve Bauk, Bob Frederick and Stan Walowac. Another major factor for the team's success was the fact they had five hitters who batted 300 or better. Jimmy Hill, Jerry Papparella, Paul Stroup, Bobby Reed and Korcheck were the members of this select group.

SAILING

Although they started with an entirely new outfit this year, the sailing team again brought honors to the University. The Buff was among the top ten in the Middle Atlantic Area and finished fifth in the annual regatta at Kings Point for the Nevins Trophy.

Each December, GW sponsors the Frostbite Regatta, held on the Potomac. Always living up to its name, the regatta was held on a cold, windy day with the hosts placing third.

George Collins and Pete Davies were co-captains of the team, and with the help of coach Jim Merow, led the sailors to a fairly successful season.

R I F L E

The Rifle Team consists of five members all of whom are selected from the Rifle Club by coach Whitney Minckler. Prior to the first match, late in January, every member of the club fires at the rifle range three days a week. Each individual records his score, and Coach Minckler picks the men with the highest overall scores to represent G. W. in the various matches. The boys who are selected must be proficient in the three necessary rifle positions; these are Prone, Standing, and Kneeling.

The George Washington Rifle Team consistently compiles a fine overall record, including several years in which they ranked first in the country. Under the fine coaching of Mr. Minckler there is no reason to believe why next year's team will not continue this fine record.

KNEELING: P. Spargnapani, A. Dainels. STANDING: W. Minkler (coach), A. Savage, G. Rabchensky.

GOLF

With every member of last year's team returning plus a strong crop of interested freshmen, the golf outlook this spring was very good. Practices took place at the Kenwood Country Club as did all the home matches. Several out of town trips were made to complete the schedule which was harder this year than in previous ones. However, interest in the sport has been built up and golf is becoming one of the more important sports at the University.

TENNIS

Despite the fact that there were only three members of last years team returning, the Colonials had perhaps the best material in the history of tennis at this school; an exceptionally fine group of freshmen and sophomores were responsible for this strange event. The highlights of the season were the four day trips to play various Virginia colleges, and the southern conference tournament.

The returning lettermen were Senior Arthur Cohen, and Juniors Mickey Boteler and Bill Russell. The newcomers to the Colonial courts are John Bouquet, John Perry, Robert Schmitz, Herbie Rappaport, and Ken Garrison all sophomores; and freshmen Bernie Steiner and Billy Wilson.

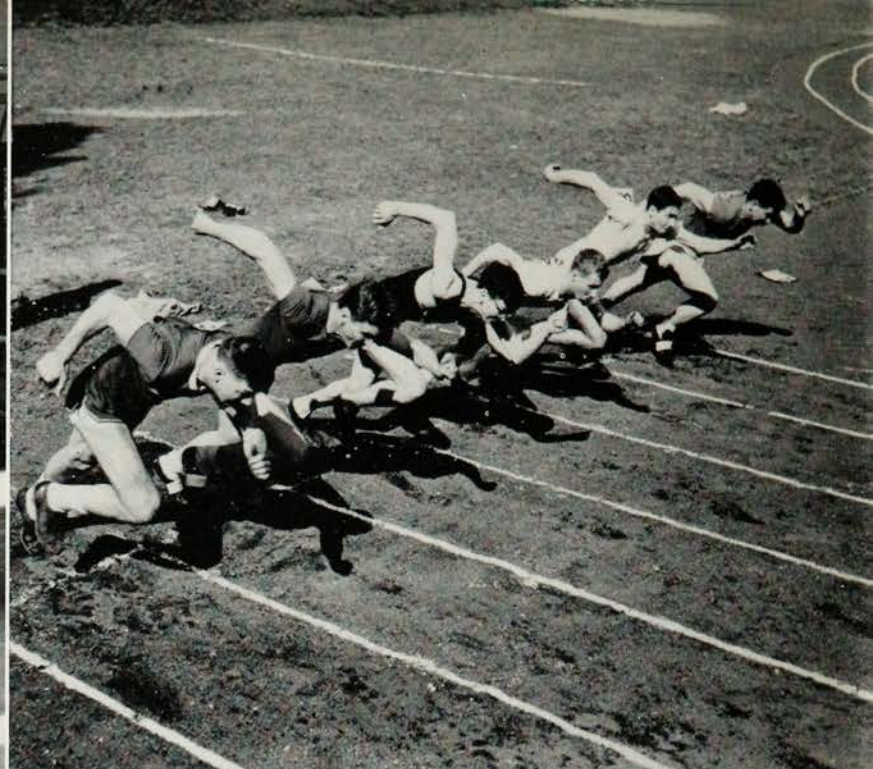

TRACK

Coached by former assistant football coach Howard (Frosty) Bowers, a small group of Colonial thinclads again attempted to build track to the stature of a major sport here at G.W.; however, the high hopes they had were not fulfilled. The results of the meets showed that the Buff trackmen were not ready for big-time college competition; Roanoke, William and Mary, and Richmond soundly defeated the Buff men of the cinders.

Lenny Ciemniecki and Phil Deturk were the only letter winners from the squad. Other regular participants were Richie Gaskell, Arlin Barr, Ahmed Shah, Ed Jaffee, Earl McLean, Jim Rudin, Joe Holup, John Ziamandanis, and Bob Sturm.

VINCENT J. DeANGELIS
Intramural Director

Under the direction of Vincent DeAngelis, the George Washington Intramural Department again had a full year in every sport. Vinnie, who assumed the job of Intramural Director in February, 1953, instituted a new type of intramural trophy this year, the sportsmanship trophy. This award goes to the team which shows the best sportsmanship, both in team play and spectator activity. Able assistance was given to Vinnie this year by his student assistants Pat Reed, Ed Jaffee and Chris McAvoy.

The Department offers thirteen sports to the male students, considered on the basis of major and minor sports. Football, baseball, basketball, track, swimming and boxing are the major sports, while foul shooting, ping-pong, bowling, wrestling, badminton and volleyball constitute the minor sports. Team trophies are presented to the winning organization of each sport at the end of the year. Outstanding individual trophies for such sports as ping-pong, swimming, golf, bowling, foul shooting, wrestling, and boxing are also given. An intramural trophy goes to the organization with the best overall record.

Last year, despite the fact that they did not win a single major sport, Phi Alpha Fraternity was the winner of the All-University trophy by virtue of second place finishes and victories in several minor sports. Roy Schlemmer walked off with the outstanding intramural athlete award for the third time in four years.

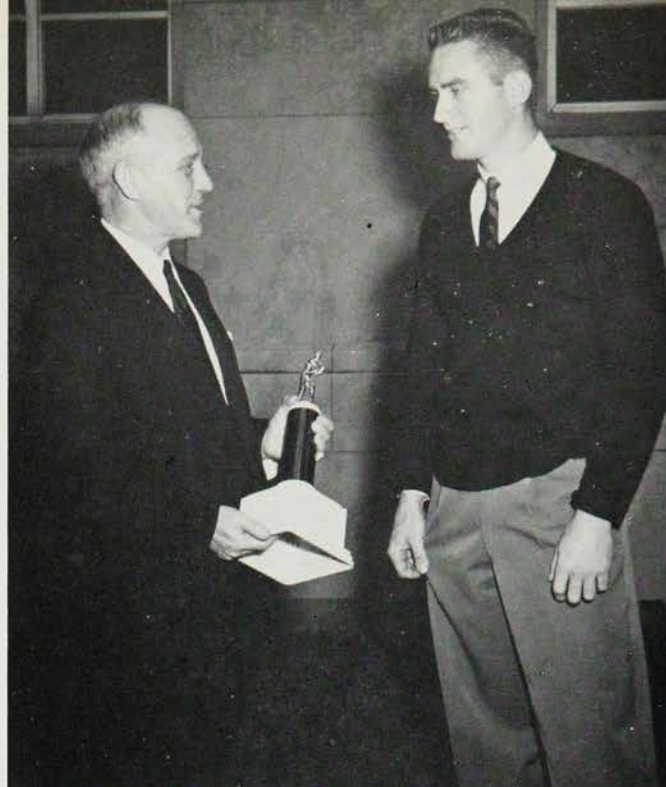

In football, Phi Alpha defeated Sigma Alpha Epsilon 6-0 to win the championship. This was sweet revenge for the Phi Alphas who had lost the championship in the final seconds to SAE the previous year. Outstanding players of the league were Lenny Weinglass and Herb Kushner, Phi Alpha; Cecil Charles, SAE; Roy Schlemmer, DTD; and Leeds Schellinger, Phi Sigma Kappa.

The intramural basketball crown went to Sigma Chi who defeated Phi Alpha 63-62 in a thrilling contest. Leading the winners were Joe Boland and Dick Gaspari. More teams participated in basketball than in any other sport, with eighteen teams entering.

Behind the consistently good pitching of George Dancu, Sigma Chi swept through the softball league. Topping their season was an 8-1 swamping of the previous winner, Phi Alpha, in the championship game.

Led by the devastating spiking of Corky Devlin, Sigma Chi added another trophy to their growing collection in winning the volleyball championship. Phi Alpha was again the victim of the Sig power.

Although Dick Dodd of Sigma Nu amassed an amazing total of twenty-six points, it was not enough to keep a well rounded Welling Hall team from winning the track meet. Dodd won the 220 and 440 yard dashes, anchored his team to a win in the medley relay and tied for first in the high jump.

Roy Schlemmer, DTD, accepts trophy from Dean Kayser as the outstanding intramural athlete.

In the remaining sports, Delta Tau Delta again took swimming and badminton; Sigma Chi captured the bowling trophy; ping-pong, golf and boxing were won by Phi Sigma Kappa; wrestling went to the strong men from Welling Hall; and Phi Alpha took foul shooting.

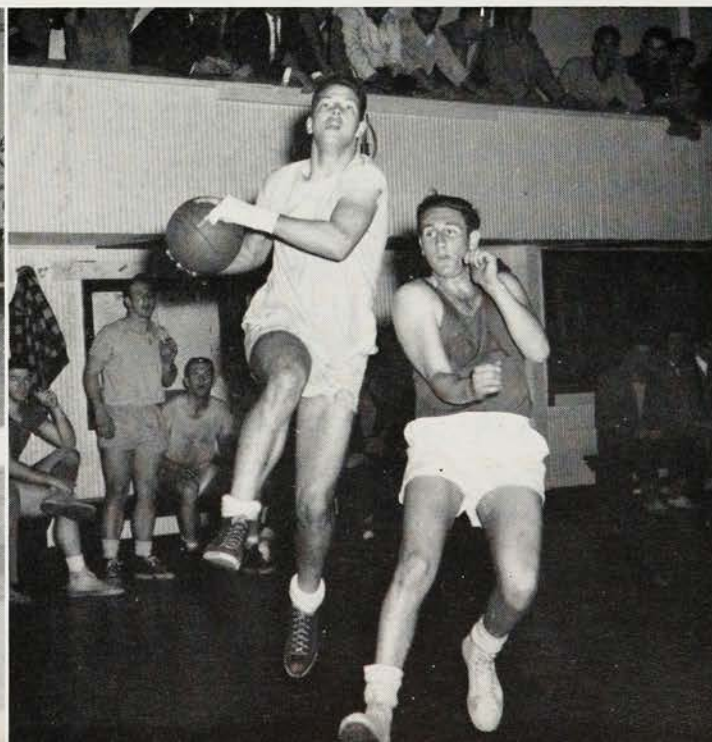

The individual trophies went to John Terauds for ping-pong; Bob Goldstein, foul shooting; Liam Leong, badminton; Stan Walowac, boxing; Jim Matthews, bowling; and Gus Panagos, golf.

In a final resume of the year, one cannot overlook the fact that over one thousand men participated in intramural sports, perhaps more than any other year in the history of the school. The intramural department supplies an opportunity for relaxation and enjoyment, while developing good spirit and sportsmanship.

Punches flow fast and furious in the intramural fights.

W O M E N ' S S P O R T S

Sports at George Washington are not limited to the men only, as the Department of Physical Education for Women sponsors a wide variety of activities for the women. Such sports as basketball, bowling, badminton, golf, archery, swimming, tennis, volleyball, and hockey are an integral part of student life.

Badminton and basketball take place in the GWU gym during the winter months. Synchronized swimming, as well as all phases of water ballet is taught by Oquassa at the Y.W.C.A. Special buses take the girls to Haines Point where they engage in hockey, golf, archery and tennis. Bowling alleys are found at the Y.M.C.A. just a few blocks from school.

Such sports as tennis, hockey and basketball are extramural as well, with games being played with other schools in the surrounding area.

To round out this wide range of activities, modern and square dancing is also offered, with square dances being given several times during the year.
